(15:04 GrandJury): Looks like SQ was moved to GA - refresh now to see her

(14:30 trollingaswell): Kinda nerfed - see post here from SQ expert

(14:28 VidalBaboon): Can anyone confirm that SQ was indeed nerfed?

(14:27 GrandJury): Wow - check out this 10 gold chest pull!

(14:08 tank): is anyone else having issues logging in after upgrading to 1.9.0.39? I'm just stuck on the splash screen

I'm not 100% sure the exact format this will take (forum, chatroom, etc) - at a minimum users will have to be able to comment on posts by other users.

Regardless this is an always free convo that scrolls into infinity - a place to talk about whatever you want that doesn't fall neatly into a question or a longer format guide

A spot to talk about everything else

Reset Guild Raid before killing boss?

I'm an officer of one of the top guilds on our sever – 50/50 players between levels 89-92 making full daily contribution.

We've been working on the Chapter 15 guild raid boss (Super Stormlord) for ~2 weeks and have him at 83% (only 17% dead). We must have another 4 weeks (at least) before we can take him out

We are tempted to reset Chapt 15 now, rerun the map and get a whole bunch more gear in probably less time. However I've read in at least two forum posts that you should never reset a guild raid early (one of the posts said EVER) but didn't give a reason. Outside of having to wait to move onto Chapt 16 raid, not being the first on our server to down the boss, and missing out on a small amount of guild coins (we obviously missed the bonus) – is there any other reason we shouldn't reset early?

Thanks in advance

I think most guilds reset 15 right now without killing stormlord. He is a grossly inefficient use of time. We killed him once to unlock 16 and then never again.

There is, of course, a benefit to waiting to reset until double raid loot.

This is what our guild has done too. We cleared 15 to unlock 16, reached the bosses for Ch. 15 and 16, then reset at both bosses because it's not worth the time to take them out. By doing this, we occasionally have enough Guild Activity to open one of Ch. 13/14 before we have to reset Ch. 15/16. - trollingaswell 2 days ago

Awesome - thanks for the info/advice and double thanks for pointing out the double raid loot event - hadn't considered that - GrandJury 2 days ago

Double drop is coming up, 7th-9th! Make sure you save up an adequate amount of guild points for that.

Yup like the other posters have said, do it once then always reset at the boss. The dude just isn't worth the grind, and the great is too good to pass up.

Ugh ch 15 raid is so brutal not looking forward to getting to the boss

Do you have IE and CW at Orange or higher? Those two are pretty important to hurt the boss at all (IE with constant CC, CW clone blocks the first boss ultimate or you get wiped). If not, your time on Ch. 15 boss is going to be extra-miserable. - trollingaswell 1 day ago

All guides start as free immediately after publication. After that, guide prices are purely based on popularity over the last 30 days. If a guide is downloaded a bunch - it's price will go up (opposite the price gradually goes down).

Users could click on any guide to read reviews, view some teaser text and download/buy the guide. Only users who have downloaded/bought the guide can rate the guide (mockup coming soon)

Double range slider? Defaults to no min/no max to begin. Sliding the lower tick creates a min search (greater than 100 coins) and sliding the top tick creates a max search (less than 200 coins). Can also use both ticks - greater than 100 and less than 200 coins Users accumulate coins/gems by 1) helping others with guides/answers or 2) buying coin bundles via small paypal transfers. The company retains a % of all coin purchases for profit and expenses.

I think we would cap the cost of any guide or bounty at $1 or $2 to begin. Coins can be cashed out via paypal anytime using the exchange rate (below)
